

I am writing to request that the LPFM service not be expanded as it would affect the listening capabilities for many FM stations across the country using FM translators. I listen to Klove on 91.3, 106.3, and 92.1 as I travel this area of South Texas. To expand the LPFM service could potentially disrupt this stations broadcasting capabilities and displace the one and only station locally that plays 24hrs a day, Christian Music. It is our only choice and would be a great loss to our community. We have plenty of options for other music venues, but not Christian. I think it is a positive influence on the community with its take on positive news, not the negative news we continually get bombarded with and the fact that many teenagers enjoy listening to the music, of which many of the bands are popular in the Christian and Pop Music scene. This station also serves as the only station I know to promote for no cost the events being held by Christian organizations in the area to get the word out on their non-profit organizations. Many of these events are to help the needy of San Antonio and South Texas. Without this venue, these organizations would be forced to use dollars that could be spent on the needy for advertising. What a loss and inefficient use of donor dollars. Please consider this request as urgent to the minority community of South Texas that loves Christian Music.
